Dear Ilana,

It was a distinct pleasure meeting you about a year ago and discussing the operations of your distinctive "Global Match" organization, which skillfully and globally matches up attractive Jewish singles, especially those from Israel, Europe, and America.

Several aspects of your wide-ranging activities excite my interest:

- Your keen interest in each individual's background and preferences, so as to make each match more relevant and successful.

- Your perseverance in ascertaining how each meeting may have turned out. This insight enables you to more tactfully bridge the gaps and chart the course for each client's successful ventures.

- Whatever the outcome, your insistence on involving yourself deeply with each client, until winnowing the ideal match for each client from your teeming reservoir of exceptional and diverse rosters.

My own personal experience exposed me in rapid succession to a number of fetching ladies from various backgrounds, thus adding markedly to the spice and exhilaration of my own ardent aspirations.

Ilana, the whole thrust of your organization can best be summed up in your own charming, witty, and prophetic promise: "See you at the wedding!"

Sincerely,

Gabe
